All Freeport Agencies Join Forces In Combating Ravages Of Saturday's Record Tide And Gales

Civil Defense, Local Red Cross, Village Bureaus Meet Task

Water Front Inundated, Power Shut Off as Trees Down Wires in Storm

All agencies—Civil Defense, the Red Cross and Municipal Departments—joined successfully in combating the ravages of the easterly gales, record tides which inundated the entire water front from the Freeport Bay Estates to Meister Beach, and torrential rains on Saturday, though the task was not completed until late on Tuesday.

The high winds whipped up the waters to such an extent that high tide about 10 A.M., figures showed a record established in 1932 had been beaten by 2 inches. It exceeded by far the situation created by the hurricane of September 1938.

Conditions became so serious that a special meeting of the Village Board was called early in the morning and a state of emergency declared so the Red Cross and Civil Defense organizations might be called in to assist the village departments in meeting the emergency.

Water Front Inundated
The high tide inundated the entire waterfront from the Freeport Bay Estates to Meister Beach, necessitating the evacuation of approximately 500 persons and causing property damage estimated at close to $500,000. The water was from 3 to 4 feet deep in the streets, and firemen operating rowboats with outboard motors were able to navigate through Ray st., the tide was so high. At one point the tide waters reached Avenue st., two blocks north of Atlantic ave.

Firemen under the direction of Chief Robert N. Kinsey worked for hours getting the people out of their homes to evacuation stations established in Christ Lutheran Church, the Salvation Army, the Legion Dugout and Hose Co. 3 on South Bayview ave., where they were taken care of by representatives of the Freeport Red Cross, Salvation Army and other agencies. The police kept a list of all persons evacuated and were able to answer all inquiries concerning evacuees.

Falling trees and the wind pulled down innumerable electric light and telephone wires giving the light distribution department the worst experience in its history. The northern sections of the village were fortunate in that there were only momentary stoppages of power in that area. The section worst hit was in the southwest, west of Long Beach ave., where people were without electricity for hours on Saturday.

East of Long Beach ave., to the Merrick line the current was off for two hours from about 8 to 10 o'clock Saturday night. Clinton Walling superintendent of light distribution and his men finally restored service in all areas at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, except the street lights. In the interval, providing heating, lighting, refrigeration and other facilities they saw (Continued on Page 12)

Evacuating Of All Waterfront Residents Falls Heaviest On The Fire Department

Take 500 From Homes To Centers; Police Get 3,000 Phone Calls; Municipal Employees Work Around the Clock To Restore Normalcy

Members of the Fire Department bore the brunt of evacuating the people from their homes in the inundated southern section of the village during Saturday's hurricane, drenching downpour and flood tide. Following an alarm at 9 A.M. for a short circuit in a sign of the Ideal Furrier on South Main st., deputy chief John Marra, put in a call for help, to the police and members of Hose 2, were rushed from North Main st., headquarters to South Grove and Polk sts., to evacuate residents of that area.

Soon Chief Robert N. Kinsey arrived on the scene and ordered all companies out, to assist in evacuating people trapped in their homes by three and four feet of water. The firemen drove as fast as they could, and then waded sometimes up to their hips and even to their chests to carry people out of their houses to be taken in waiting trucks to the evacuation points in Christ Lutheran Church, where the Red Cross had set up its quarters; the Salvation Army, the Legion Dugout and Hose Co. 3 on South Bayview ave.

Boats Floating In Streets
Boats of all descriptions were floating about streets as far north as Ray st. These were moored to anything available to keep them from interfering with the rescue work. Residents of the neighborhood supplied outboard motors which were attached to row boats and enabled the firemen to get closer to the homes. People were evacuated from every street along the waterfront including Bedell st., South Grove st., South Ocean ave., Miller ave., Nassau ave., South Bay, South Long Beach ave., South Main st., and on west to Meister Beach. Some refused to leave their homes when given an opportunity to do so but later called for assistance and were taken to the evacuation centers.

Two expectant mothers were among those carried from their homes, a paralyzed woman who was taken to the Salvation Army in a wheel chair, a family in which was a month-old baby, a boy who had cut his hand in which four stitches were taken and at least 100 persons suffering from various forms of illness were among those evacuated. Chief Kinsey reported. Four men had to be carried from the South Shore Yacht Club.

Army Trucks Assist
The demands of the work were so vast each company acted on its own and took over a certain territory. Five Army trucks and crews were provided by the Heavy Tank Battalion which has its Armory on Babylon Turnpike. The Headquarters of the Fire Department, under the direction of Col. Thomas Kelly of Freeport, and Mitchell Field also were rushed to the scene and gave valuable assistance to the firemen.

Chief Kinsey established headquarters in his car at Grove and Front sts., and kept in touch with the police and other agencies through use of the two-way radio with which it was equipped. He said afterward that it was only only through this instrumentality that the work was carried on so successfully.

Paralyzed Woman Among Evacuees

Among the evacuees received at the Salvation Army Saturday, was Mrs. Collins, a paralyzed woman who was taken from her home on the waterfront.

Evacuees Made Comfortable In Four Centers Set up to Accommodate Them

More than 600 persons evacuated from their homes along the waterfront which was inundated were cared for in centers set up in Christ Lutheran Church, the Salvation Army, the Legion Dugout and Hose Co. 3 headquarters on South Bayview ave. They were cared for until they could return to their homes or other arrangement could be made to accommodate them. Some were unable to leave until Monday.

The evacuation work was in charge of Milton Danziger, chairman of that division of the Freeport Civil Defense organization assisted by the Freeport Red Cross Branch, which provided food. Cots were obtained from the Armory in Hempstead, the Air Base in Mitchell field while some local merchants supplied others.

About 100 evacuees were taken to Christ Church, where cots were set up on one floor for the women and another for men. Approximately 200 were cared for in the Salvation Army, more than 100 in the Legion Dugout where 53 remained overnight, and more than 100 in the Hose 3 quarters, most of whom were related to the other buildings.

Similar scenes were enacted in all the evacuation centers, so a report on activities at the Salvation Army, 75 Church st., where the largest number was cared for will give an idea of what transpired.
Scenes at Salvation Army
Chairman Danziger arrived there early Saturday to alert Major and Mrs. Ernest W. Newton announcing that an emergency had arisen and he was counting on the Salvation Army to come to the rescue. The (Continued on Page 8)

5 Freeporters Die, Three Injured In Kew Gardens Crash

Civic Groups Expected To Join Fights for New L.I.R.R. Management

Five Freeport residents perished and three were injured in the Long Island rail road collision near Kew Gardens on Thanksgiving eve taking a toll of 77 lives.

The list of casualties was as follows:
DEAD
Henry Citron, 41, 176 North Bayview ave.
David Fox, 41, 150 North Brookside ave.
Irving Katz, 17 California ave.
Adrian Klein, 162 California ave.
James M. Murphy, 34, 19 Lenox pl.
INJURED
Arthur Bleakley, 168 Pine st.
Martin Kramer, 30, 31 Oakfield ave.
John Regan, 23, 239 South Ocean ave.

Four of the dead were neighbors in the newly developed northwest section. They were actively interested in civic affairs and members of the Northwest Civic Association. They also belonged to Justice Lodge, B'nai B'rith which is planning a service in their memory.

Freeport got off luckily in the collision in Rockville Centre nine months ago when several local residents were injured, none critically. The five killed in Kew Gardens was low considering Rockville Centre and Belmont, but none the less their loss will be keenly felt here.
The local civic organizations are expected to join in the drive for a change in the management of the L.I.R.R., with a view remedying conditions when they meet next month.

Freeport Red Cross Gets First Call For Disaster Relief Work

Cares for Evacuees And Others Under Dr. Dodd's Direction

For the first time in its history the Freeport Red Cross branch was put on a disaster relief basis during Saturday's storm. Dr. John W. Dodd, chairman of disaster relief, took over after being alerted from the office of the Nassau County Chapter in Mineola. He opened headquarters in Christ Lutheran Church established center for this type of work. He also visited all other centers to which evacuees were taken at various times during the day.

They supplied soup, sandwiches, coffee and milk purchased with society funds to the evacuees. Mrs. Leon W. Swisher is chairman of the disaster relief. Mrs. Albert H. Hammond is chairman of the teen unit which supplied the food. Mrs. Charles J. Jessup, is head of the motor corps which transported the supplies, while Mrs. Wallace H. Campbell took care of the registration of the evacuees.

The Red Cross workers continued to operate assisting the other agencies in every way possible, until the final evacuees had found accommodation. (Continued on Page 8)

Perhaps, also, by helping bring about a substantial and permanent solution to as grave a problem as we neighbors have faced together, we shall lift a weight of anxiety that settles daily over thousands of homes. To this purpose we pledge our earnest support to the campaign to rescue the Long Island Rail Road from its long career of inept, indifferent, and heartless management, and to make it an instrument of true public service. We ask those in public authority to proceed to the achievement of this objective, by making careful consideration into all of the complicated factors involved, and then providing permanent relief by whatever means seem most desirable. Meantime, to end the present emergency, we ask that such corrective steps be taken immediately as will give assurance of protection against a similar disaster. To these purposes, we of the Village of Freeport promise our unstinted support.

The festival of Hanukkah will be celebrated by the people of the Jewish faith from Sunday through to Sunday, Monday, Dec. 11. This festival of "Festival Days" is in commemoration of the rededication of the Temple of Jerusalem by the victorious Maccabees in 167 B.C.E. in their struggle against the Syrian-Greek King Antiochus, who attempted to suppress the religion of the Jews. On Sunday, Dec. 10, at 10:30 a.m., the annual Hanukkah celebration will be held. All departments of the school will participate in a program which will include community singing, recitations, plays and dances. The Sisterhood will again, as in the past, present to each child special Hanukkah gifts in keeping with the spirit of the festival.

PLAZA IS TO REPEAT 'KING OF THE ROCKET MEN'

Due to Saturday's storm, many children were disappointed when they were unable to attend the "movies" and see the opening chapter of a new serial story "King of the Rocket Men," at Freeport's Plaza Theatre. The manager has arranged to play the opening chapter Saturday afternoon, along with the regularly scheduled second chapter, so the small movie-goers of the community will get the proper line-up of hero, villain and plot positions for the following twelve Saturday afternoons, which promise to thrill them with the daring exploits of this daring man in the skies.

Temple B'nai Israel Has Dinner and Dance

Thirty years ago, a small group of Jewish residents realizing the need for a house of worship and spiritual guidance, formed Congregation B'nai Israel of Freeport. Since that time, and due to the effects of its original members, their children and the gradual influx of new residents, this congregation has continued to flourish. Today, the congregation property covers a complete block on Broadway. Its membership numbers approximately 350. The membership of the Sisterhood exceeds that number.

The congregation recently celebrated its thirteenth anniversary at the Park Inn Hotel, Rockaway Beach, where the members and their friends gathered for dinner and dancing. In conjunction with this occasion a journal was sponsored, and the net proceeds will be used to help defray the cost of a Youth Center to be located on the congregation's property.

Freeport High School Seniors Ready For Presentation Of 'What A Life'

A matinee performance of this year's senior play, "What A Life" by Clifford Goldsmith, will be given this afternoon at 3:40 for the students of the Freeport High School to be followed tomorrow night by another presentation in the high-school auditorium for the general public. The play is based on the hilarious mishaps of Henry Aldrich and has been rated by Burns Mantle, as one of the most amusing comedies of the decade.

Frank C. Filkins will play the unfortunate high school junior, as he tries to prove to the entire faculty of Central High School that he did not steal all the band instruments. Barbara Pearson, class president and Henry's love interest, is portrayed by Pat Elms. Henry's arch enemy, George Bigelow, is acted by George Riefenstahl.

The principal, played by Roger Sammis, blunders through this satire in high school life trying to get his office back to normal. He plans to accomplish this by expelling Henry Aldrich.

Six members of the cast of seven-teen are in a sense veteran performers. Wayne Marshall, who plays the assistant principal, has been in "Life with Father" and "Arsenic and Old Lace." Ginger Merritt who is cast as Miss Shen, the secretary of Mr. Bradley, also has appeared in "Life with Father" and "Arsenic and Old Lace." Barry Hart, who plays Bill, appeared in "Life with Father." Martin Swartz, in the role of Mr. Vecchitto, had a part in "Arsenic and Old Lace" as did Sammis, and we won't forget that Irene Jenner, as Miss Wheeler, played in "Dear Ruth."

Others in the cast are Peter Looman as Mr. Patterson, Joan Riserley as Miss Pike, Carol Munkelt as Miss Eggleston, Laura Jean Vought as Miss Johnson, Marilyn Muller as Gerie, Ann Porter as Mrs. Aldrich, Dick Schapp as Mr. Ferguson, and Frances, not cast.

The production manager is Frances Pratt. Staff Associates are Jeanne Lyon, Joy Siegel and Jane Wilson. Student Directors are Antoinette Alcaastro and Mona Turner.

The Theresa Sampson shop, at 74 North Main, is bountifully stocked with most of the nationally advertised merchandise in her line. Freeport ladies are showing keen interest in this welcome establishment.

Dr. K. F. Moore Gives Exchange Club 15th Consecutive Thanksgiving Talk

The Rev. Dr. Karl F. Moore, superintendent of the South District of the New York East Conference of the Methodist Church, delivered the Thanksgiving Day message of the Exchange Club of Freeport for the 15th consecutive year following luncheon in the Freeport Elks club-house. He was introduced by Judge Hilbert R. Johnson, program chairman for November. The Rev. C. Newman Hogle, pastor of the Freeport Methodist Church, and the Rev. Reginald H. Scott, rector of the Church of the Transfiguration, also were guests at the luncheon.

Dr. Moore commended the Freeport Inter-Faith Clergy Council for arranging a union Thanksgiving service, in which Protestants, Catholics and Jews were to participate. He also commended, Mons. John J. Mahon, pastor of Our Holy Redeemer R.C. Church for his part in the development of the Clergy Council.

"The world is in turmoil today," he said, "but there are more things that unite us all instead of divide us. I can say in all sincerity that through God in Freeport, you have an inter-faith Clergy Council that is doing something that is not being done anywhere else in this country, in holding a Thanksgiving service in which all religions and races are uniting. I would that this could be done across America and that in every community there was a man like Mons. Mahon to join in a movement such as you have here."

Dr. Moore added there was but one God, who was not the God of the Hebrew, the Catholic, Baptist or Methodist, "but just a God of mercy and love."

"You have torn down the walls that divide and gathered together people of all faiths and races for which I say, thank you God," he continued, "This is something unique and precious and I hope you retain it. Bow your hearts and give thanks to God that you are all in one circle." Dr. Moore exhibited a picture of a man seated at a table on which were a bowl of porage, a crust of bread, a knife, spectacles, and a book, the Bible, on which his head was bowed in prayer as if he was saying thanks for the presence of the Almighty.

"There seems as if in that elemental way the artist showed a very great truth that man is not really a man until he has learned to bow his head in prayer. And there is something else, the very absence of all formal signs of any particular religion in the picture indicates that there is room for all, Catholic, Protestant, etc., and that each tells the same story."

Medical Society Plans Mediation Committee

Formation of a mediation committee to hear and adjust complaints of the public has been announced by the Nassau County Medical Society.

In announcing the establishment of the committee, Dr. Leo T. Flood, the president, said the primary purpose of the unit would be to improve doctor-patient relationships. The committee, added Dr. Flood, will investigate complaint of patients who feel they have been overcharged, seek amicable adjustments of differences and misunderstandings between doctors and patients arising from any cause, and to defend physicians against unjust accusations.

"We feel the establishment of this committee is of primary importance," Dr. Flood added. "It marks a very definite effort on the part of the medical profession of Nassau County to insure that the public will have every opportunity to be heard when it feels it has been unjustly treated in medical matters."

"We feel that this new committee will have as great an educational problem as a judicial one. In many cases misunderstandings between doctors and their patients exist because the patient has not had an opportunity to receive a full explanation of the medical problem involved, and at the same time the doctor has not become fully acquainted with the personal problems of his patient."

The committee will be made up of five members of the society, Dr. Flood said, including both general practitioners and specialists.

Com. Kurcheski Honored By Danish Government

In his Consulate at 17 Battery pl., Manhattan, Danish Consul General Sigurd Christensen presented a silver box as a token of esteem from the Danish Government to U. S. Coast Guard Commander John R. Kurcheski, 16 Charlack pl. Also present during the quiet ceremony were Captain Albert M. Martinson, Chief of Staff, and other officers from the 3d Coast Guard District where Commander Kurcheski is currently assigned.

The award was made in recognition of Commander Kurcheski's assistance on three separate occasions in 1947, as Commanding Officer of the Coast Guard icebreaker Stor, to the Danish Motor schooner Elizabeth, Signe and Mik. The help rendered the Elizabeth involved a particularly dramatic and difficult sailing through ice-choked waters and dense fog to answer the disabled vessel's SOS and then tow her into the port of Scoresbyund. There, Commander Kurcheski and his crew were instrumental in making repairs to the vessel and placed Stor's landing craft at the disposal of the Danish meteorological service for landing her equipment.

While the original award was approved in 1948, its acceptance by Commander Kurcheski required the passage of a special authorizing act

Dear Madame and Sir:

You and I and our neighbors are living in a very confused period. World events in faraway places have come right home to us and are affecting our habits, our work and our incomes.

Our Country is fighting the legions of tyranny and darkness with dollars and guns and the cream of our young men. We at home are in the battle, too, and of course we feel the pressure of the fray.

Taxes are up. Take-home pay is a little curtailed. Price levels are rising. We all are watching our spending more carefully.

As a Merchant on our Main Street for years, I am well aware of the pressure that's on us. But as a citizen and neighbor I am also aware that a practical spirit of give and take is in order.

With that in mind, I have decided to make the following offer to all readers of this open letter:

L. I. R. R. Wreck Victims Listed At Thanksgiving Day Service

More than 250 persons attended the Union Thanksgiving Day service in the chapel of the Methodist Church Thursday morning under the sponsorship of the Freeport Inter-Faith Clergy Council, in which congregations of all faiths in the community participated for the first time. The Rev. C. Newman Hogle, pastor of the home church, presided. A note of sadness was injected into the occasion at which Salvation Army, who had spent the night at the scene of the Long Island Rail Road wreck in Kew Gardens, read the names of the five Freeport men who perished in the catastrophe, and Pastor Hogle offered prayer for them and their families.

The Rev. James A. Shaw, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene and president of the Inter-Faith Clergy Council, read the call to worship. The Rev. A. Gordon MacRury, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation. The responsive reading was led by the Rev. Lewis M. Carper, pastor of the Zion A.M.E. Church. The Rev. L. R. Hickman, of the Church of God, offered prayer. The President's Thanksgiving Proclamation was read by the Rev. James G. Harris, of the Second Baptist Church; the Rev. Reginald H. Scott, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration, made the benediction; Rabbi Reuben M. Katz, of the Congregation B'nai Israel, preached the sermon and Mons. John J. Mahon, pastor of Our Holy Redeemer R.C. Church, pronounced the benediction.

Beatrice Killingsworth presided at the piano and there was a vocal solo by Mrs. J. S. Shaw.

Ed Durlachers Honored At Square Dance Festival

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Durlacher were hosts and guests of honor at the silver wedding anniversary square dance festival of the Long Island Square Dance Callers Association held in Adelphi College, Garden City, Sunday afternoon and evening. Mr. Durlacher is president of the group.

Other callers who participated were Floyd Woodhull of Elmira, N.Y., Ralph Page of Kane, N.H., Lawrence Loy of Amherst, Mass., and Al and Hal Brundage, of Connecticut.

Christian Science
"God the only Cause and Creator" is the lesson-sermon subject for Sunday, at 11 A.M. at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, West Merrick rd., at Elm pl. The golden text is "Lord, thou art God, which hast made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is" (Acts 4:24).

The sermon will be from I Chronicles 29:11-13, King James version: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all. Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all. Now therefore, our God, we praise thee, and praise thy glorious name."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "Human capacity is slow to discern and to grasp God's creation and the divine power and presence which go with it, demonstrating its spiritual origin... Advancing to a higher plane of action, thought rises from the material sense to the spiritual, from the scholastic to the inspirational, and from the mortal to the immortal... As mortals gain more correct views of God and man, multitudinous objects of creation which before were invisible, will become visible. When we realize that Life is Spirit, never in nor of matter, this understanding will expand into self-completeness, finding all in God, good, and needing no other consciousness (pp. 519, 256, 264)."

Evacuees Made

place was quickly thrown open and soon the evacuees began arriving. All registered by Mrs. A. J. Mackenzie. They were transported from their homes by members of the Fire Department under the direction of Chief Robert N. Kinsie. Many were drenched. Dry clothing was immediately provided and they were given hot food.

One woman was taken into the building in a wheel chair, her face wreathed in smiles. This was the spirit of the evacuees who were received at the Salvation Army Haven.

As the number rose to 196, the people were permitted to telephone friends who might be able to accommodate them for the night.

Food supplies were procured immediately through the courtesy of Frank Rille, manager of the A. & P. store. Major Emily Eastwood, of the Wayside Salvation Army School in Valley Stream arrived during the morning with members of her staff who brought games and refreshments. The children played and sang in the spacious recreation hall, while the parents sat in groups, also playing games and singing lustily as someone played the piano.

"There Are Smiles That Make You Happy" rang out led by Major Newton, as his wife ladeled out hot soup for a long line of people.

Mr. and Mrs. David Kadane, 73 Porterfield pl., picked in and helped Mrs. Kadane cooked with the assistance of Virginia Metcalfe who headed the kitchen crew.

Rabbi Reuben M. Katz, of Temple B'nai Israel, spent the entire day cheering up the aged, playing games and serving ice-cream to the youngsters to whom the entire experience seemed a gala occasion.

It was about midnight before the beds and mattresses arrived from the Hempstead Armory and Mitchell Field. The Salvation Army in Hempstead sent 100 blankets and others were supplied by the Heavy Tank Battalion Beds were quickly made and those who had been unable to obtain accommodations elsewhere soon turned in and soon were fast asleep. The women and children were bunked in the chapel and the men in the recreation room.

Major Newton arose at 4:30 Sunday morning and started preparing breakfast for some of the early risers. The last family did not move out of the Army headquarters until Monday at noon. Everyone had a good word for Major Newton and the Salvation Army.

Major Robert L. Dozsee, Cyril O. Ryan, director of Civil Defense, Dr. John W. Dodd, of the Freeport Red Cross, who with Benjamin H. Helm co-operated in obtaining the blankets were on hand. Village Trustee Cord-Viebrock donated ice cream and candy as did Major Eastwood. Other Village Fathers also visited the building. Chairman Danziger made the Salvation Army his headquarters for his co-workers on the evacuation staff.

Regular services were held on Sunday and Major Newton remarked that "our little chapel seemed a more hallowed place than usual for the people of all faiths have come to its altar. Rabbi Katz greeted those of his race, Catholic women knelt in prayer in thankfulness for their protection."

Major and Mrs. Newton declared they had been thrilled to have been able to throw open the building to so many who had had only a sidewalk acquaintance with the organization, but now could be counted as friends.

Wreck and Storm Hit Close Together

Thanksgiving week 1950 will long be remembered by every Freeport resident for the Long Island R. catastrophe a week ago last night in which five local residents perished and the most devastating storm that ever hit these parts on Saturday necessitating the declaration of a state of emergency, the calling in of the Red Cross and Civil Defense organizations, the evacuation of 500 waterfront residents stranded by a record tide that inundated the entire area, stoppages that put the lighting department to the severest test in its history and kept workmen of the Fire, Police, Highway and Sanitation Departments on the job restoring normalcy to the village without rest or sleep for many hours.

The wreck, the second on the railroad in nine months, took 78 lives and was the worst disaster of its kind in the history of New York State. It has aroused public indignation with a demand that drastic steps be taken to insure the efficient operation of the L.I.R.R. and assure safety in travel to restore confidence in the railroad. The Public Service Commission reported that the engineer of the second train who was killed instantly, violated the rules by speeding through two blocks set against him indicating that the crash could have been averted if rules and regulations had been adhered to.

As for the hurricane and floods which did so much damage and caused so much misery it can only be attributed to an "act of God." Unfortunately as it was, it demonstrated that the Red Cross Society and Civil Defense organization headed by former Mayor Cyril C. Ryan, which have been placed on a war footing are prepared to meet any emergency that may arise. All who had any part in coping with the situation created by the elements are to be complimented on the way in which they carried on. These agencies include the Red Cross Civil Defense, the Police, Fire, Highway Light Distribution and Sanitation Departments, the Village Fathers and numerous citizens who added their individual efforts in meeting the situation.

The Leader Bookshelf

By MRS. ELIZABETH F. KELLY
Librarian, Freeport
Memorial Library

Fulton Oursler is not one of the great people of our time. Yet he has certainly done more than most men to turn our thoughts toward God and the forces for good. To hear him speak on the radio, to read the words he has written is to be convinced that this one time, self-styled skeptic is now not only travelling the right road but trying, in a pleasing manner, to convince others to become fellow travelers.

Mr. Oursler's newest book "Modern Parables" (Doubleday, 1950, $1.75) is small enough to be read at one sitting, yet it packs much food for thought and contemplation. His parables are actually true stories which have been told him by a few of his many famous friends. Among others is the story of his own, old colored nurse who always found something to be thankful for, no matter how deeply she had to search for that something; of Bill, a dipsomaniac, who was led to found Alcoholics Anonymous, and of the man in the cage who saved an irate circus elephant from destruction.

Each parable is different, yet all lead in the same direction, and expound the same theory—that a great love for humanity and forgiveness of self can lead to a satisfaction and achievement in life which no material gains or glory can outshine.

Recently a noted critic said that the affair between southern publishers and young southern authors had gone far enough. Perhaps the affair would terminate when young southern rivals appeared on the scene to win the affections of the publishers again.

Our library has two new novels from the South which seem to indicate that the northern publishers have something to justify the lison. They are "House of Breath" by William Goyden (Random House, N.Y.), and "Reprisal" by Arthur Gordon (Simon & Schuster, New York).

"House of Breath" is highly stylized poetic prose, vague, beautiful and misted over with vapory intonations of evil and futility. Situations which would be truly revolting are glossed over by Mr. Goyden's tender prose.

The story of a Texas town or any other small southwestern town is told by exposing each setting and character and examining it with a sympathetic eye, holding the picture thus revealed to the eye of the reader.

"Reprisal" is in contrast a forceful, explicit narrative dealing with a Southern town. The home place seems all important to a Southerner. Arthur Gordon tells a straightforward story of the race problem which reaches below the surface and often erupts with violence. This is no caricature of the South. Each character is developed, plausible and furthers the action of the plot. Mr. Gordon's training on the staffs of various magazines is evident. These are two books for different moods, but not necessarily for different readers. Anyone who enjoys good earnest writing, a typically American treatment of the American scene, and an increasing element of suspense will be rewarded by reading these two "first novels."

Among the recent non-fiction additions to the library shelves are the following: "Rhymes of a Roughneck" by Robert Service; "The Wit and Wisdom of Roosevelt" edited by Maxwell Myersohn; "The Pulitzer Prize winner of 1950, 'This is Russia' uncensored by Edmund Stevens; 'Air Power: Key to Survival' by Alexander P. deSeversky; 'Modern Wonders and How they Work' by Captain Burr W. Layson; 'Aldrich Rockefeller' by Mary Ellen Chase; 'The Human Use of Human Beings' by Norbert Wiener; 'Get a Horse!' by M. M. Musselman which is the personal history of the automobile from the first car to the present. 'The Empire State at War—World War II' compiled and written by Karl Drew Hartzell, and 'Your Dream Home—How to Build it for LESS THAN $5,500' by Hubbard Cobb.

LEADER'S DIGEST... One of the most pleasant waitresses in Freeport, (she's a doll), works in Bouloks' Tea Room. Her name's SARAH HYLER... RUTH LANE (she's legal-eagle, Julie Birgen-thal's secretary) does a nice job as drum-beater for the OUBURN CALENDERS, (dramatic group of the Adult Education Program), who will present their first production of this season titled "Lilith" in January. Director HENRY BURNETT (also FHS dramatic teach) slated to be "SPOT-LIGHTED" by this reporter in January for his grand work with embryonic thespians... HENRY LOUIE, the new comer to our village who started the Chinese laundry in Lyman Buryer's location near the railroad tracks, has an enviable World War II record, (and terrific sense of humor too).

SHORECREST SNAP-SHOTS... Freeport Chamber of Commerce executive board met Monday night with President JOE GILDEBLATT with plans to present a slate of officers for the 1951 season of this revitalized organization. SHORECREST SAKET, IRVING GREENINAR, LOU MANDELL, LOU GRANT, DON WELLS, BILL FREY, STUART WALLACE, IAN MURRAY, WALLY CAMPBELL and your reporter answered to roll call. (Many members bedded with colds etc.)... Guests in the cocktail lounge heard eye-witness story of the LIRR catastrophe from HERBERT GUNDERSON who was one of the few passengers alive in the wreckage car. (More fantastic than any nightmare)... DAVE SHAPIRO'S added something new to his hotel: radios in the rooms... MANAGER JOE CHAPPELLE (who's had international experience in hotels and de-luxe ocean steamships) proud about the new chef now supervising the kitchen at the SHORECREST... New mikologist at the top man in his field and a favorite with Freeporters. You all know him.

'ROUND TOWN... Freeport prize-winning brother-sister teenage dance team "Cuban Calypso" (Lee and Kathie Stewart) peevied at a Hempstead contest with the winner, (who was not named) for a WOR-TV show. All they got was $10 and no mention of the telecast... Charming MRS. DOROTHY HAMMARLUND celebrated her birthday with a family dinner at OTTO KUNZ'S SEA BREEZE RESTAURANT, (double celebration because word-received that son, Robert, received assignment to the Air Force). Model ELEANOR RYAN, who usually rides the ill-fated LIRR, missed the death car by minutes because of a lucky star... Steady stream of traffic to a certain spot at 16 South End Place made this writer curious. We checked. No wonder crowds were rushing. Eerie the chef at the SHORECREST TAVERN created his own business, attracting firework by selling sirloin steaks for $1.25 and fillet mignon. Genial George laughed it off with, "I'm losing money at these prices, but the volume makes up the difference."

FOR PUBLIC SERVICE RENDERED... I only wish the space permitted the mentioning of each individual private citizen, members of the fire and police departments, the personnel of the civil defense program of Freeport, and the many others who co-operated during the recent storm to show that Freeport in case of emergency, can, and always will be one. Regardless of any petty differences that might appear from time to time, when an emergency strikes, the people of Freeport work as a team to help those in need. This was the case case from the Mayor and Village Trustees, right down to the teen-agers who helped in the storm. Citizens of Freeport, we say "Thank You" with all our hearts.

COVERING THE BEAT... Welcome to THERESA SAMPSON who opened a new shop at 74 No. Main St. (formerly with Lord and Taylor, she's one of the best coster's in the business)... Another store empty on West Merrick Rd. (Formerly occupied by a wholesale fluorescent light company)... The GUS BAUERMEISTER'S are the new owners of the STOP BAR AND GRILL on South Main St. near the cannon. They're swell people and welcomed to Freeport. (Behind the bar because they're very popular with the crowd)... Welcome to ERIC and WALLY, the wonderful team that bought the SMALL FRY on North Main. They call it the FREEPORT MANOR and specialize in fine cooking. (Full house on opening day!)

PLUGGING A WORTHY CAUSE... The Evening Circle of the First Baptist Church will sponsor a Silver Tea and Sale, Thursday, Dec. 7th, from 1 to 9 P.M. Drop into the Fellowship House because all proceeds will go to the Building Fund of the First Baptist Church. (And thanks to Mrs. Edith Campbell for informing us of this worthwhile project.)

LOMBARDO LANE... Surprising that during the storm, GUY LOMBARDO'S EAST POINT HOTEL was not damaged by wind. What ever water appeared did no damage to the terrazzo floors. This popular rendezvous continued doing business. BILL FREY already starting to get swamped with New Year's Eve reservations. ($10 per, will include tax, noise makers, favors, delicious fillet mignon dinner, a good orchestra, and many extras). Have you ever noticed the beauty of our water front during the fall and winter months, especially when viewed from a cozy spot like the GLENN? As Guy Lombardo confirmed on TV, this place will stay open all winter.

DURYEA ORCHID CREATION... This week's lovely flower creation, a master piece by IRVING DURYEA, is awarded as a token of public appreciation to a woman for the wonderful that her husband has done in behalf of the merchants of Freeport. He is a veteran and one of the deans of our business fraternity. Although not a young man, he personally has solicited funds for many campaigns and has supervised the Christmas decorations and other mechanical projects. So it is with great pleasure that we say "Thank you MR. IRVING GREENINAR for the wonderful work you have done" and, it is with great pleasure that we award the Duryea Orchid creation as a symbol of appreciation to his charming wife.

(Editor's note: We just found out about HARRY SHEERMAN'S (A-DEAL SUPER MART) excellent community work during the recent storm. Next week's orchid will be awarded as a token to his wife with full details of the story.)

YEA TEAM!!! Freeport high finished the 1950 football season by defeating Baldwin in the annual classic by the tremendous score of 47 to 13. By virtue of this win Freeport was able to lay claim to an undefeated season and a tie with Memphis for the Class A championship. Hempstead, Champlain, Poughkeepsie, Sewanhaka, Far Rockaway, Trenton, Westbury, and Baldwin all fall victim to the RED DEVILS' deadly blow. Congratulations to the whole TEAM and to COACH ASHLEY and the whole coaching staff—You really did a terrific job.

There were no busier people in the U.S. last weekend than Freeport High's marching band. It performed at the Baldwin-Freeport football game, the all state band concert and as a special attraction between the halves of the New York Yankees-Los Angeles Rams football game at Yankee stadium. At all occasions it gave its usual superb performance.

Text of Rabbi Reuben Katz's Sermon At Union Thanksgiving Service

The following is in substance the text of the sermon delivered by Rabbi Reuben M. Katz, of Temple Israel at the union Thanksgiving service held in the Freeport Methodist Church Thursday morning.

"It is to the everlasting glory of America that we as clergymen and laymen of all faiths have gathered together on this Thanksgiving day as a united religious community in order that we might humbly and gratefully express some of our deep and genuine emotions, as Americans, as men of faith, as children of God fashioned in His image.

"It is to the everlasting glory of our community that for the first time in its history such an interfaith service has been held—a service which has been prepared by the Protestant, praised by the Jew and blessed by the Catholic. How proud we must be today as citizens of America, this great land of the free, the only modern country which has created out of its own experience a festival and day of celebration which can be called religious.

"And Thanksgiving reminds us of the great universal religious truth that it is wrong and sinful to take for granted the blessings that we have in this world. Deep in our collective religious consciousness is imbedded the belief that everything we possess and everything we hold dear comes to us because of the efforts of others, both man and God.

Spirit of Mutuality
"And so today, joined in humbled gratefulness to all who make our happiness and well being possible, we meet together not in the spirit of toleration, an attitude which implies superiority, not even in the spirit of tolerance, for this attitude only too often belies an apathy and indifference towards one's faith and principles. We meet in the spirit of mutuality, of brotherly love, in the attitude of mutual respect, of understanding, of co-operation, of quite confidence in one another's honesty, sincerity and integrity. If we can only capture this spirit today and hold on to it throughout the year, then this service will indeed have been a successful religious experience."

Rabbi Katz then described the first winter in America of the Pilgrims, telling how half of those who crossed the Atlantic aboard the Mayflower perished and how the supply of food was reduced to such an extent that only five grains of corn were placed at each plate at meal times. Later as a reminder of this fact, he added "the custom developed in early New England at Thanksgiving time, five grains of corn were placed at every table."

"In this way the lines and spiritual descendants of the Pilgrim fathers were to recall the suffering, the hardship and the sacrifices of those who pioneered the eventual establishment of a free land for free people," he said and then continued:

Five Grains of Corn
"Were this custom of placing five grains of corn at each plate around the Thanksgiving table still in vogue today, it would surely serve us as a reminder of the great personal sacrifices which made this great country possible. It would serve, moreover, as an excellent reminder of those gifts for which we pause in gratitude today, and would re-awaken in us an awareness of the duties and responsibilities which fall upon our shoulders because we do enjoy these blessings. Some preachers have already spoken of what these five grains of corn have symbolized for them. I, too, should like to speak of them.

"The first grain of corn might stand for the original purpose of Thanksgiving—gratefulness for the bounty which God has given us in this beautiful and fertile land of ours. We possess what we have, a poet described as 'autumn hills all tapestried in gold,' 'sleeping valleys' and 'flaming sunlit clouds,' we have also been given the fruits of the earth, the wheat and the corn in overflowing measure. We are the best fed people in the world. We take for granted the loaf of bread at the baker's, and the well-stocked refrigerator at home.

"This symbol of the first grain of corn reminding us of our bounty should also remind us that the true Thanksgiving spirit is expressed only when we take of earth's produce and cause all nations to give thanks unto the Lord.

Responsibilities to Share
"The symbol of the first grain of corn is the symbol of the humanitarian aspect of the Marshall plan of the E. O. A. It is the symbol of the United Jewish Appeal, Cancer Drive, the March of Dimes, of the Community Chest, the Red Cross, the church, the synagogue and all worthwhile endeavors. It is the duty of all who are grateful for their bounty to share of their physical blessings with those who are in need. The first grain of corn would teach us that for the blessing of abundance we have the responsibility to share.

"The second grain of corn may well symbolize the gratitude we feel for being blessed with our dear friends and loved ones. It may be true that we normally do not wear our hearts on our sleeves nor yet do we talk much about our friends and our families. But at this Thanksgiving period it won't hurt us to become sentimental. So often during the year in moments of grief, discouragement or defeat our families and our friends are there at our side ready to lighten our load.

Saddened by Wreck Tragedy
"It is so easy for us to take them for granted. We generally do not express to them our appreciation for all the little things they do for us throughout the year. They may be frank to us and they may frequently correct us, but they multiply our joys, they reduce our sorrows. We can never really repay them for all that we owe them. And with the tremendous human tragedy which the railroad wreck has meant to countless families in our area, our hearts are sick and saddened as we count the injured and the dead. We clutch the members of our own families closer around us grateful for every moment we have with them.

"The second grain of corn may well remind us of our dear companions in life. And our corresponding duty is that we must merit their affection and their faith in us by bearing a deep faith in them, and furthermore, that we have the further duty of showing our deep and abiding affection for them by kind and thoughtful deeds.

"Our third grain of corn might stand for the great men and women whom this Thanksgiving recalls to us. We have been most fortunate in our own land in having had great men step forward and lead our people through all the difficult periods we have had to face. We are still inspired by the familiar scene of the Father of our country praying to God at Valley Forge, or of a lonely President facing the floors of the White House seeking to preserve the Union with malice-toward-none and with charity to all. We think of a Woodrow Wilson and a Franklin D. Roosevelt, who dreamed of a united people and who trusted that in the future days their hope for a united mankind will prove a reality.

"The fourth grain of corn may well serve as a symbol of the deep gratitude we must feel for the peace which we enjoy. Despite all talk and rumors of war, we who should know by now what devastation armed conflict brings in its wake, should be thankful for every minute of precious peace which we enjoy. We have bought this peace at a terrible price. Let us not make the mistake of taking it for granted. Let us not permit it to become a temporary armistice between wars.

"Our fourth grain of corn makes us mindful of, and grateful for, the peace we enjoy. It should teach us that we must make that peace vigorous and dynamic if we are truly to deserve it.

"Our fifth and final grain of corn remains. To whom shall we dedicate it at this peak of Thanksgiving? Can we do better than to dedicate it to the Source from whom all blessings flow, to the Almighty, Good and Beneficent God. In the words of our prayer, 'The Lord is good to all and tender mercy is over all His works.'

"It is God who gives us the bounty of the earth, the bread on the table, the fruits on our trees, and the beauty of our sunsets. It is He who has inspired the great men and women of all time, for we believe that their ideals and their messages spring forth from God's Holy word. It is God who grants us peace and calls forth from us all the greatest and noblest action that we can possibly perform.

"Let us all in humility express our profound gratitude to God for His blessings which are ever with us: for abundance and companionship, for great souls and for peace. It is good to give thanks unto the Lord and sing His praise, O most high."

Human Relations Group Conducts Athena Meeting

The Department of Human Relations, with Mrs. John W. Dodd as chairman, sponsored a meeting of the Athena Club in the visual education room of the Seaman ave. school, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Dodd spoke on "Mexican Nationally Influences on the American Way of Life." She talked especially about the migrant groups of Mexicans who come into the United States for seasonal work. She said they did sheep-shearing in the northwest, worked on beet sugar farms in the central states and vegetable and fruit farms in the south. Mrs. Dodd said they were content with life as they live it and working in the States does not seem to inspire them to improve their conditions by becoming educated or having their children educated.

The Community Service groups of which Mrs. Robert P. Monkelt is chairman, will meet Monday to complete stuffed toys for distribution in institutions as Christmas gifts to children. The following Monday afternoon the Choral Department, Mrs. Robert N. Fillmore, chairman, will give its Christmas program.

Sisterhood Bazaar Starts on Saturday

The annual bazaar of the Sisterhood of Congregation B'nai Israel will be opened at 1 P.M. in the vestry room of the church, and continue through Tuesday night. Kiddie Day will be observed Saturday, with motion pictures, games and prizes. Monday afternoon's feature will be a cake sale. Tuesday night an auction sale will conclude the bazaar. Luncheon will be served each day, and a snack bar will be open evenings.

Committee chairman for the bazaar are Mrs. Abraham Parkoff, Mrs. Samuel Fishkind, Mrs. Leon Nelson, Mrs. Leon H. Lovitt and Mrs. Bernard Frisch. They are being assisted by a staff of 50 women.

COST ACCOUNTANTS TO MEET PLAN ORGANIZATION MEETING

Scanning The Sports Scene

Now that the curtain has been dropped on the local football campaign, the big sport in the scholastic circle is basketball with competition expected to be at a high level this season.

DICK SCHAAP

Freeport's hoopers, with seven out of eight lettermen returning, figure to be in the thick of the struggle for the South Shore Athletic League title. Jack Plunkett, last year's top scorer, is the only missing man from the 1949-50 combine.

Dave Fearsall, the Red Devils' great defensive ace, seems to be hitting his stride again after an ankle injury forced him to the sidelines for the majority of the last season. Fearsall has recovered from this injury and now flashes his old speed and forecast wizardry. Fearsall, an all-county choice two years ago, has finally found the scoring touch that eluded him during the past years.

Freeport's key offensive threat returns in the person of diminutive Freddie Fellman. The speedy, scoring specialist has added some new shots to his vast repertoire. Fellman was listed among the top five scorers last year and will be up near the top this year.

Towering six-five Jay Schmidt is also prepared to supply the needed board strength and scoring punch. The powerful pivotman is in his fourth season of varsity competition and it is hoped that he will reach the stardom that has been predicted for him.

Dave Jones, a first team operator last season, finds himself struggling to retain this berth. Jones, possessor of a smooth one-hand shot, is competing with a pair of last year's reserves for the remaining starting posts. John Morgan, a six-three rebound specialist, and Joe Antros, an aggressive ball hawk, are hustling into contention for a first string position.

Also expected to see considerable action are Hugh Erwin and Al Scopinich, a pair of six-three operators up from the junior varsity. Charlie Ondorionk, a steady left-handed performer from last season's reserves, should see considerable action.

The remaining berths have been filled by Howie Waszner, Emil Lauck, George Dragonevich, Phil Roberts, Bert Campbell, Bert Sheard and Gene Carlisle. All performed for last year's jayvee except Waszner who was a varsity reserve.

Other leading contenders for the S.S.A.L. crown are Sewanhaka, Baldwin and Mephram. Sewanhaka, winner of Section One last year, has Chris Harris, a deadly set shot. Winnie Kelly, a swift playmaker; Al Pugliese, a flashy ballhandler; Bob Donlon, six-four pivotman and Ron Comte, six-two rebounder; for their starting five.

Baldwin has a pair of junior aces in shifty Denny Miller and powerful Bill O'Brien. Charlie Shaw and possibly Ed O'Rourke are also numbered under returning veterans. Mephram has one of the tallest scholastic arrays seen in many years. Their giants include six-six Don Nelson, six-four Vetter, and six-four Burkhardt. Among the midgets on the squad are six-one Ed Nickla, six-one Bob Meyer and a pair of six-footers, Greg Maushant and Sal DiPazlo.

Long Beach's hoopers, under the tutelage of former North Carolina star Bob Gersheim, are paced by two veteran juniors. Little Tommy DeLuca, an all-scholastic pick last year and now in his third varsity campaign, teams up with deadeye Harry Sachs, a six-five junior, to give the Beachers a devastating one-two attack.

SIDEGLIGHTS... We ran into a little bad luck last week as the Rutgers-Colgate game was cancelled due to the weather. This was the game that was to be viewed by the winner of our football contest. Tickets for some other game will be obtained for the winners. We know of a pair of former Freeport hoopers who are now playing collegiate varsity ball. Bill Dodd is a key man on the Colgate Red Raiders while Gene Schaffer is a member of the varsity at the University of Vermont. More news on these boys later.
